The officers of the Northwestern railroad, gone to New York, but he had left his Kentucky wife at home, and she proved herself took a seat and held the fort for two days Sunand a night. All efforts at a compromise failing, the attorney of the road ordered the train to run out, regardless of living obstructions. But they didn't suspect Mrs. W. of being from Garrard county, Ky. and didn't know that she was loaded. But she was both, and, drawing a 16 shooting rifle (probably from the mysterious recesses of her buetle), she held the railroad officials, attorney and other employes at a dead halt until her terms for a compromise were complied with. The Expressionist heard a story recently of a small negro boy who goes to Sunday. school in the little brick church in Fort Erie. He got up to repeat the verse, "It is I, be not afraid " He conveyed the idea correctly, but in a rather shocking manner, by saying: "I.'s me, don't be scart." This calls to mind the case of the six year old gir in the Harbor Mission school, who was rather mixed in her scripture and in trying to say "And lo, a greater than Solomon is lain! The experience of Iowa is that opium consumption has increased under liquor prohibition. One of the most frequently used arguments of the anti-prohibition side is that the consumption of light wines and beer is favorable to diminution of the demand for ardent spirits. By parity of reasoning freedom in satisfying the appevite with any form of liquor tends to pretent resort to opium.

Thousands of dollars worth of chickens die every year from Cholera. It is more fatal to chickens than all other diseases combined. But the discovery of a remedy that positively cures it has been made, and to be convinced of its efficacy only requires a trial. A 50-cents bottle is enough for one hundred chickens. It is guaranteed. If, after using two-thirds of a bottle, the buyer is not thoroughly satisfied with it as a cure for Chicken Cholera, return it to the undersigned and your money will be refunded.
